PART A — ORGANISATIONAL PROFILE

1. Executive Introduction

African Solidarity Civic Organisation NPC (ASCO) is a community-focused civic organisation based in Durban, KwaZulu-Natal. ASCO promotes social justice, human dignity, constitutionalism, active citizenship, community development, African solidarity and peaceful coexistence through advocacy, education, grassroots initiatives, partnerships and practical community programmes. The organisation is registered as a non-profit company in South Africa and operates subject to its Memorandum of Incorporation, Constitution, Board Charter, approved policies and applicable law.

Message from the Chairperson

ASCO was established in response to the need for principled, community-led civic action that places dignity, equality and solidarity at the centre of public life. Our work is grounded in Ubuntu and in the conviction that communities must be active participants in shaping the decisions and conditions that affect them. We will continue to promote dialogue over division, lawful and peaceful civic participation over vigilantism, and practical partnerships over isolation. The Board is committed to transparent stewardship, ethical leadership, responsible use of resources and programmes that are responsive to community priorities.

Message from the Executive Director

ASCO's operational task is to translate its constitutional mission into well-managed programmes that communities can experience and evaluate. We will prioritise disciplined implementation, accurate records, safeguarding, learning and constructive engagement with institutions and partners. Our programme commitments include youth cultural exchange, civic education, community dialogue, anti-xenophobia awareness, youth leadership, environmental sustainability and peaceful public participation. Targets in this portfolio are planning targets unless expressly identified as achieved results and will be reviewed against available resources and Board-approved plans.

ASCO's Journey and Institutional Evolution

ASCO's current phase focuses on institutional consolidation as an approved Public Benefit Organisation: maintaining clear governance instruments, developing programme systems, strengthening partnerships, maintaining accountable financial controls, maintaining Section 18A compliance and expanding responsible African and international partnerships.

The website records current public-facing activities and programme intentions, including a youth cultural exchange and social cohesion focus, community dialogues, civic education campaigns, anti-xenophobia awareness, stakeholder engagement, peaceful demonstrations and environmental sustainability. Public claims about achievements are treated as dated operational information and should be supported by programme records, attendance registers, reports, photographs, financial records or other appropriate evidence.
